The Challenge of Providing Quality Care for Older Adults: Preparing the Health Professions for the Aging Century

An Interprofessional Faculty Development Course

* Intensive Seminars * Mentored Projects * Collaborative Learning * Leadership & Career Development

Sept 2012- May 2013

Location: UCSF Laurel Heights

Application Deadline: May 1, 2012
(enrollment limited)

Applicants will be notified by June 1, 2012

Fees: This program is funded by a grant from the US Bureau of Health Professions and is at no cost to participants. An optional fee applies for CME/CEU: 60 hours/$75

For more information:
Cary Sweeney Program Manager
csweeney@medicine.ucsf.edu

Develop your expertise to teach the next generation of health professionals about best practices in the care of older adults and enhance your ability to lead the way in education, practice and health systems change.

Learn more and apply!

Ask a Question

Core Curriculum

8 full-day sessions featuring a dynamic, interactive curriculum taught by faculty experts that includes clinical content, education skills, and strategies for leading change.

Sept 28
"Transforming Education & Practice: Understanding the Older Patient"

Oct 26
"Assessing Function and Cognition in Older Adults: It Takes a Village"
Dec 7
"Chronic Conditions, Medications, & Older Adults: Balancing Evidence & Patient-centered Care"

Jan 25
"Communication with Older Patients & their Caregivers: A Foundation for Quality"

Feb 22
"Managing Care Across the Continuum of Settings: Navigating the "Un-system"

Mar 22
"Developing Champions for the Aging Century: Skills for Success & Leading for Change"

Apr 26
"Quality of Life at the Crossroads: End of Life, Palliative Care & Hospice"

May 31
"Pulling It All Together: Next Steps to Transform Education, Practice, Health Systems, and Your Career"

Additional course content (for a total of 160 hours) includes:

- Development of an education and/or practice improvement project
- Individual mentoring/career guidance by core faculty
- Self-study readings & web-based modules tailored to individual interests
- Participation in other organized CE activities including professional conferences